This well-preserved property was renovated roughly 25 years ago to a good standard. Spread across multiple floors, the townhouse boasts ample space for various living arrangements. Each floor conveniently opens onto a small terrace or patio, offering an exit which is well-seeked in this kind of property. The upper area grants breathtaking views of the iconic Sóller church and the picturesque town. Further there is another attic room that could be made livable as well for extra bedroom. With the convenience of oil central heating, residents can stay cozy even during chilly seasons. Located close to all facilities, this townhouse is very practical for those who appreciate the proximity to the square and daily life to be easy handled by foot or bike.
